How to Trace Your Native American Heritage

Discover your Native American Heritage...for you, for your children, and for their children after them. Use this guide to search out the path of your ancestors and establish your roots within the Circle of Life. 2003

Windwalker

Lying in his deathbed, the aging Cheyenne Warrior, Windwalker, tells his life's story to his small grandchildren. Filmed in Utah, the dialogue is subtitled in English with Cheyenne and Crow languages spoken. Voted the #1 anthropological film of all time, this is a unique story about Indians—without a single cowboy in sight! 1980

The Alkali Lake Story

Stripped of their Native culture and beliefs, the Esketemc people of Alkali Lake in British Columbia were left with a void in their lives that led to almost 100% alcoholism for their band. This story of heartfelt recovery from almost complete cultural and spiritual destruction is true. It occurred between 1940 and 1985—and all of the actors play themselves! 2006

Reel Injun

An entertaining and provocative look at Hollywood's depiction of Native Americans, Reel Injun journeys through a century of cinema to set the record straight. Traveling through the heartland of the U.S., Cree filmmaker Neil Diamond examines how the myth of the “movie Injun” has influenced the world's understanding—and misunderstanding—of Natives peoples. 2009

Ishi, the Last Yahi

The original film by Rattlesnake Productions, this film chronicles the unforgettable story of Ishi, erroneously known as the last survivor of the Yahi tribe, following extensive massacres of Native Americans in California in the 1860s and 1870s. 1994
